Designs and storytelling
inspired by our history.

Throughout the fair, find select stories, motifs, and designs inspired by our history and the community of makers and craft appreciators that have made all of this possible.

ACC was a progenitor of the Studio Craft Movement and the World Crafts Council, a producer of the first craft fairs, a parent of the Museum of Art and Design, and an incubator for the organization now known as CERF+. We have published a magazine for all of our existence and remain the premier nonprofit chronicler of the state of craft in America.

ACC Storytelling

The artful work of the human hand remains essential to who we are and the cultural legacy we steward for the generations who follow us. As our nation prepares to celebrate its 250th birthday, in the context of over 18,000 years of indigenous making on our continent, ACC is proud of our own years of championing craft and its makers. America has changed and evolved every step of the way. So has our craft ecosystem. So must we. The American Craft Council invites you to be part of this journey.
